ONE DOWN AND MORE TO GO

The battle of signs in Carmel gained almost as much attention as the battle of the century, between Police Commissioner Burge and Editor Bassett last week.

Above are two "before and after taking" scenes at the northwest corner of Ocean avenue and San Carlos streets. Kip Silvey painted out one of his colossal signs and is standing by to see what the rest of our merchants are going to do about the latest froth stirred up in the village.

Audit Explanation Delayed by Council

We missed our guess last week and the council meeting Wednesday night was not featured by any pyrotechnic display in connection with the recent audit of the city books.

City Attorney Argyll Campbell stepped upon the fuse when he explained to the council that Miss Saidee Van Brower was busy with the current assessment role and asked that she be given an opportunity to prepare a written statement explaining an asserted discrepancy of $2,634.77 in previous assessments.

Miss Van Brower, veteran city clerk and tax assessor, is expected to have her written statement ready to present at the next meeting of the council.

We are sorry, if we happened to lure you away from "bank night" and into that uneventful session of the council.

After the city attorney made his suggestion, which was accepted, the council went into a lengthy discussion as to why gasoline trucks should be allowed to park in restricted zones while disgorging their cargoes and private cars were not permitted to park in the same spots when there were no tank trucks in the village. The argument was not heated enough to win much applause from the audience.

Bud Todd arrived home from Oregon last week and can be seen working at Imelman's. Glad to have you back, Bud.

Government Offers Carmel Directors for Playgrounds

George Seideneck has been placed in charge of a WPA recreational project for Carmel and a number of playground directors are to be placed on duty here during the summer—provided a playground can be found.

Seideneck and Corus Jackson, chairman of the Parks and playgrounds commission, have been in conference but they have failed to reach any agreement on a program. According to Jackson, the WPA may place an instructor upon the municipal tennis courts during the summer but he can not see where any other WPA recreational directors can be used.

Unfortunately, a radio news broadcast last week announced that the WPA was to place a life guard on the beach here. Apparently, a life guard is just what both members of the city council the the park commission do not want. If a guard is placed upon the beach, it is understood, the city would be accepting responsibility for "operating" the beach and might be placed in the position of defending itself in suits resulting from drownings in the surf. As it is, the beach is just one of those things which nature provided and the city is not responsible for.

Seideneck, who has been an ardent worker for the Forest Theater since it was created, wants to bring in a number of WPA

WPA Gallery Offers Exhibit of Designs

The new exhibit at the Federal Art Gallery is a collection of reproductions of early craftwork, produced under the Federal Art Project for the Index of American Design. Twenty-five states have projects under way, but some of the finest work is being done right here in California.

The pictures run from the earliest times to about 1900, and consist of needle-point, dolls, puppets, treasure chests, iron work, and jewelry. About half a dozen of the subjects belong to peninsula residents, which makes the pictures doubly interesting. There is a beautifully reproduced copper conserve kettle owned by Miss Anna Zabala. A pearl pin owned by Mrs. Maria Antonia Thompson has an interesting history. Its ten pearls were brought from Mexico by General Manuel Castro; the three leaves of the pin were made from $5 gold pieces, and was executed in Monterey. An old Indian shoe owned by Mrs. George Kinlock, was found in the wall of Governor Alvarado's home, where Mrs. Kinlock now lives. This shoe is well copied.

These pictures will eventually be sent to Washington where they will be reproduced for the American museums.

Signs in Carmel New Controversy

Carmel is working itself up into one of its famous lathers again and signs in the business district are responsible for it. The unusual part of this particular lather is that the Carmel Business Association and not the so-called art for art's sake group is furnishing the soap and agitating the brush.

Mrs. Florence Leidig, purveyor of groceries, etc., etc., started the argument by mentioning at a recent meeting of the association that signs in Carmel were getting bigger and better at an alarming rate.

The squall grew into a sou'wester within a few days and blew right into the city council, which promptly battened down its hatch and disclaimed any responsibility for a typhoon started by the association.

By that time, the hurricane was centered around the corner of Ocean avenue and San Carlos street which is occupied by Kip's Food Center. Then, to her astonishment, Mrs. Leidig discovered that she had the largest sign in Carmel painted on the side of her grocery emporium at the corner of Ocean avenue and Dolores street.

Kip Silvey took advantage of the opportunity to gain a little publicity and had the sign on the San Carlos side of his food center painted out.

Andy B. Johnson, Southern district manager for the Purity chain of grocery stores, was in Carmel for the opening of his firm's new store, between San Carlos and Mission streets, and saw an opportunity to become Carmelish by removing, with quite a little pomp, the large and spectacular sign which had been created in view of enticing customers into this new meat, vegetable and grocery solon.

Ross E. Bonham, proprietor of a hardware store next to Kip's, has announced that he is going to remove about half of the signs in front of his institution.

Next door to Bonham's is the Carmel Drug Store, which boasts the village's only electric sign. Peter Stuart Burk, the proprietor, is reported to be standing by and waiting to see what Mrs. Leidig, who started all of this lather, is going to do about her bigger and better sign.

Mrs. Coppuck of the Cinderella Shop was in San Francisco for a few days last week on a shopping trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Amory Skerry and Mrs. Alice Dioso of the Carmel Highlands have returned from a three months' tour in the East where they visited relatives.

In Festival

VIOLINIST HERE

It was a great pleasure to see Sacha Jacobinoff back in Carmel again, and he seems very glad to be here. He finds the atmosphere of our town delightful. Mr. Jacobinoff has just returned from a trip East, and on his way here stopped off in Los Angeles where he saw Henri Deering and Olga Steen. He will teach in Carmel this summer, return to the Bay Regions this fall to play in orchestras in Berkeley and San Francisco. It is hoped that he will play in the Bach Festival this summer.

THEN and NOW

By
WILSON DAVIDSON

Those of us who are old enough recall with great pleasure the beloved actor Joseph Jefferson and his delightful portrayal of Rip Van Winkle. We hear again the lines "Here's to your health and your families; may you all live long and prosper." And as the last word is spoken in a deep tone, he tilts a cup to his lips.

We can bring back vividly the dog "Towser" and the animal's affection for his master; Mrs. Van Winkle and her increasing anger at old Rip's libations; and, finally, how, on a dark and stormy night, during a magnificent display of thunder and lightning, the thoroughly enraged wife drives her uncomplaining husband out of their house.

In the next scene, fifteen years later—or was it twenty—old Rip awakens from his long slumber. His clothes are in tatters, as he moves he complains of "rheumatics"; his rifle drops in pieces, and, lying close by, are the bones of his faithful "Towser."

So on to the end of the play.

Such a sweet and innocent and kindly expression had Joseph Jefferson such as I have never seen in the face of another man.

It is interesting to recall that the great and sturdy Grover Cleveland chose him for many years as his hunting and fishing companion.

Someone told the story that during the heyday of Rip Van Winkle, Jefferson was on tour and found himself in need of some ready cash. He went to a local bank and made his wishes known to the teller. That official demurred, adding that he did not know the actor and that he had no means of identification.

At this last, old Rip, assuming his character in the play, improvised the lines, "If Towser was here he would help me!"

Joseph Jefferson got his money.

We read in the pages of one of our popular magazines that Bing Crosby, noted radio and screen star was preparing to cash a check at a hotel. Presenting himself at the cashier's window, the clerk was very sorry that he did not know their guest. At this Bing asked the official to step with him out to the street and pointing to a large, flashing electric portrait of himself, asked: "Does that guy up there look like me?"

Bing Crosby got what he wanted!

Honeymooning up the Carmel Valley are Ensign and Mrs. Jerome Butler White, U. S. N. The young couple are at the farm at Hollow Hill of Mr. Noel Sullivan, who is a life long friend of the bride's family.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cave of Orange Cove have been in Carmel visiting Mrs. Cave's sister, Mrs. Henry Hasty at her home on the Point. Mrs. Cave also stayed with her father, Dr. J. L. Hughes for a few days.

Entered as second-class matter, February 3, 1933, at the postoffice at Carmel, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

The Californian, formerly The Carmel Sun, was adjudicated a Newspaper of General Circulation by the Superior Court of Monterey County, California, October 7, 1936.

Subscription rate $2 per year.

Never in our career can we recall having witnessed, nor can we remember having heard, of so absurd, so puerile and so very pathetic a spectacle as that which was enacted late Friday afternoon on Ocean avenue and San Carlos.

The two principals were Councilman Joe Burge and Editor W. K. Bassett, and they were engaged in trying to hit each other, like school boys. They were having a little fist fight. The reason, from what we can learn, for this pathetic exhibition was the fact that Mr. Bassett has seen fit, from time to time, to criticize our pugnacious councilman editorially. With the merits, faults or provocation of either participant we are not concerned. But we are very much concerned when hot-headed councilmen go around knocking down editors for writing editorials, or, indeed, for any other reason.

We herewith make a public apology to visitors and citizens for the disgraceful conduct of our commissioner of police, who brawls on the main street. And what is more, we maintain that anyone with so little control as our fireating councilman is ill fitted to participate in the government of this or any other city.

We wish to remind anyone who needs a reminder that there is still freedom of the press in the country and that we definitely resent being knocked down by ANYONE for expressing our views, much less a police commissioner.

There is another angle to this distressing business. Who is to arrest the police commissioner for street fighting? Can police commissioners go around the streets knocking people down without being reprimanded? Can an officer be expected to arrest his department head? (Luckily there were no officers on the scene of the fight.) It seems to us that some law will have to be passed to deal with brawling police commissioners, for the protection of everybody in general.

To make the matter worse, the councilman appeared to want to fight on the main street. Onlookers stated that the little editor calmly mentioned to the frothing Burge that they were in a public place and that fisticuffs would not look too well. Whereupon the sturdy councilman demanded that Mr. Bassett take off his glasses, which he did. Several blows were struck, the affair concluding when Burge knocked Bassett down by striking him on the nose. The whole affair would be laughable if it weren't for the complete absurdity of a councilman resorting to savagery to protest an editorial. Maybe it's laughable anyway.

Two local grocery stores last week were good enough to take down, at the request of several local citizens, huge signs which they had erected to advertise their wares, on the grounds that they were unsightly and detrimental to the village's noncommercial atmosphere.

We have noticed lately the increasing number of signs, more or less unattractive, throughout the residential section which state in very common language that this place is for sale and that for rent. These signs make the town look like a cheap subdivision on the outskirts of Los Angeles. They are in no way part of Carmel's atmosphere which everyone tries so hard to sustain.

We have been given to understand that real estate people decided some time ago not to erect such signs on vacant lots and homes. In any case, it is sure that were all the real estate agents, about half the total population, to erect signs and posters in front of all the properties they handle, Carmel would present a most plebeian and unattractive aspect. Realtors should meet again to decide against these signs.

By JACK WILLIAMSON

Typographical errors are likely to happen in the best of regulated families.

However, we have had such a choice collection of them during the last few weeks that we feel that we should take you back of the scenes and explain why even more of them do not get into the printed columns.

These Linotype operators are not bad scouts but they are human. Each of them have two hands. On those hands, they have a total of 10 fingers. As near as we have been able to figure it out, there are at least three potential errors in each one of those fingers. When all of those fingers go into action on a piece of our copy a lot of things can happen. If by some stroke of luck the typewritten page is converted into errorless slugs of lead, the make-up men are standing behind the operators and ready to juggle that type into the most unexpected formations. The odds are against you and you just can't win.

For instance, last week, we had a simple little head which should have read "GRAVE SERVICES HELD." We happened to see that line in type and it read "GROVE SERVICES HELD." We took that slug back to the operator and asked to have the correction made. It was made and the slug read "GRACE SERVICES HELD."

Our contemporaries have the same troubles and, without casting any slurs in their direction we are going to quote a few of their blunders during the last couple of weeks. The first is from the last issue of a local paper, and we will explain that the last line should have been in a story about a meeting of the Carmel Business Association which appeared in the same issue:

After a brief honeymoon at Pine Crest in the High Sierras, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bare have returned Carmel. The couple were married Pine Inn tonight at 8 o'clock.

Pacific Grove journal runs a daily column called "Who Cares." The lead story in that column a few weeks ago was the obituary of a prominent Pacific Grove matron.

The Monterey paper should have some sort of a prize for the next one. A story was continued from the first page to the second and the head and first paragraph on Page 2 read:

"DUKE AND WALLY

REUNITED TODAY

"No longer found to be harmful to syphilitic cases."

The worst of it is, this Idiotorial is going to have to be converted into type by a linotype operator. The type is going to be turned over to a make-up man for assembly. We have a hunch that one of them is going to develop a sense of humor and make this column even more goofy than we had intended it.

Just to inspire them, we are going to relate a little incident of typographical juggling which caused a Texas editor to be shot about 40 years ago.

The editor wanted to refer to a Civil War veteran as a "battle-scarred" veteran. When the printers were through with the story it read "battle scared" veteran. The old gentleman demanded an apology and it appeared the next day as follows:

"Yesterday, due to a typographical error, we referred to Colonel as a battle scared veteran. What we should have said was that he was a bottle scarred veteran."

FRANCES LOMBARD WED

The marriage of Miss Frances Lombard and Mr. Louis Sortais was solemnized at three o'clock Sunday afternoon in St. John's Chapel at Del Monte. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Mr. J. C. Sloane of Oakland, looked lovely in a floor length, pale ivory frock of silk net simply designed. She wore a short veil and carried belladonna larkspur.

Mrs. F. B. Hilmer, the bride's sister, was her only attendant. She wore pale pink chiffon and carried white roses and larkspur.

The young couple will take a fortnight's wedding trip after which they will be at home in Carmel.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. B. M. Lombard of Palo Alto who arrived on Saturday to attend the wedding. The groom is head of the commercial department at Monterey Union high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Watson and their three children left last Wednesday for a month's trip to New York.

Aid For Playgrounds

workers to clean up the grounds, thereby saving the usual voluntary workers a lot of grief. However, to utilize these workers, the theater grounds would have to be designated as a recreational center.

According to Seideneck's plan, this could be accomplished, after the clean-up, by placing a badminton court upon the stage. However, there seems to be a little insect known as a "termite" which may crawl in and disrupt this plan.

There seems to be a little discussion as to the condition of the foundation of the stage. No members of the commission are going to be quoted upon the matter until they have obtained the opinion of experts. Until they are sure that the floor is safe they are not going to enter into any agreement with the WPA which would allow badminton players to romp over the stage at the city's responsibility.

All parties concerned in the controversy agree that there is a need for supervised recreation in Carmel during the summer, but as the village has no playgrounds it is likely that the WPA organization will concentrate upon the Sunset school's playground.

Building Code Near

The Pacific Uniform Building Code, which is the "Hoyle" of building inspectors in practically every municipality in California, is about to be adopted by the Carmel city council. A majority of the councilmen have agreed to its adoption, with one slight change, and their action is expected to be made official at the next meeting.

The one change will concern construction of board-and-batten type of homes, which has become an art in Carmel. The standard code prohibits construction of houses of this type which have a total area of more than 400 feet. The change in the code will permit the building here of houses of this type up to an area of 1400 feet but these structures will be limited to one story.

In the past, B. W. Adams, our building inspector, could protest to contractors if he thought that the type of construction being used was not up to recognized standards but in the future he may have a weapon at his disposal to force safe and sound construction.

The council started its consideration of the Pacific Uniform Building Code two years ago but its members feared that its adoption would result in too many complications and protests. The code was almost adopted last fall after a series of conferences between the councilmen and contractors.

Mrs. Arthur Gergen of Pasadena, a former resident of Carmel, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brownell at their home on Scenic Drive. She was joined by her husband, Mr. Arthur Gergen late last week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Solz from San Francisco left Pine Inn Thursday after spending a week here.

BATTLE OF THE CENTURY

We are employing the traditional "X marks the spot" on the sidewalk in front of the Carmel Wine Shop to show you where our police commissioner, Councilman

Joseph A. Burge, and Editor W. K. Bassett staged a common street brawl Friday afternoon. Some day, a historical society may want to lay a bronze tablet in the concrete at this spot, but we doubt it.

Plan for Ambulance

On Saturday, Carmel P. T. A. swelled the Red Cross Ambulance Fund with a subscription of $25.00. This makes the present total $1768.50. It is hoped that during this week sufficient subscriptions will be received to make the goal of two thousand dollars. As soon as that is reached the Ambulance committee with Col. T. B. Taylor, chairman will come to a decision on the type of ambulance needed to serve this territory. Those, not already subscribing can deposit checks or cash to the fund at either bank or with Red Cross on Dolores street.

Mrs. Kohler, in charge of Red Cross clothing department states that there is dire need of trousers to fill a constant demand. Men's suits, underwear and shoes are being called for daily. Children's shoes are also needed. Any articles not needed locally are passed on to the Salvation Army at Monterey.

Sheets and pillow slips, blankets and comforts are being requested. Red Cross will send for packages if they cannot be delivered.

NURSES' HOME

The new nurses' cottage at the Monterey Peninsula Community Hospital opened Saturday afternoon with a tea from two to five. The new cottage was built by the hospital but the furnishings were given by Mrs. W. F. Kilpatrick and Miss Ada Howe Kent, both of the Carmel Highlands. The building is designed to house nine nurses, and has a separate suite for the superintendent. More beds will now be available in the hospital as the nurses formerly lived in the hospital. The architect of the nurses' cottage which was started early in March is R. B. Coats, and the contractor is Harold C. Geyer.

RETURN TO CARMEL

Mrs. Bert Hyde and lovely daughter, Betty, pictured above, have just returned to Carmel from the East. Also welcomed back was another daughter, Ida Jean, who was in San Francisco saying goodbye to Miss Paula Schrapps, well-known to Carmel, who is off to South America. Lad Hyde, who has been studying at Stanford University left for Wichita, Kansas to work there this summer.

NEGATIVES

By way of the high seas from Honolulu comes word that Don Blanding has completed his new book "The Rest of the Road." The strain of writing it must have proved a bit too much for him for we understand that he has taken to the hills for a few months to recuperate.

Anywhere in America is restful enough for Bill Dickinson, who will arrive in New York June 19 from Paris. Bill had ideas of going to war in Spain but apparently abandoned them in favor of returning to Carmel, much to his father's relief.

The honor of being the first Carmel boy to walk across the Golden Gate Bridge goes to Hugh Gottfried, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Gottfried. His next objective should be the Carmel-San Simeon road which has a total of thirty-two bridges.

George Aucourt had a birthday on Thursday but he was so taken up with the building of his new shops on Lincoln street that he didn't take time out to do much celebrating—that is until dusk overtook the town.

Like Los Angeles, Chicago seems to be extending its boundaries until now they reach the ocean. At all events we learn that Mrs. John Chitwood, the former Jean Taylor, has gone to the Windy City to join her husband, a lieutenant in the Navy who is to be stationed there for the next three years.

Our nomination for the most beautiful blonde of the week, and for many weeks to come, is Mrs. Howard Schlesinger, of San Francisco, who with her mother, Mrs. Ralph Wilson has been staying at the La Playa Hotel.

Our nomination for God's gift to reporters is Scoutmaster Dale Leidig who when asked if he knew any news replied, "Wal, no, but it sho' looks like rain, gal." That evening the San Francisco papers reported that there had been more rain in the bay region that day than is usual for the entire month. How do you do it, Dale?

Bert Heron told us that one of his kittens had disappeared and he just couldn't locate it anywhere.

After we had thanked him kindly for that bit of news, he said he would shoot us if we printed it. But we really consider it a great tragedy and loss to the community as Bert only has twenty-five kittens left.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mather left for Dallas, Texas Friday evening. Accompanying them were Pat and Sam Coblentz who will visit Miss Joan Winslett. Mr. and Mrs. Mather will stay with Mrs. Mather's mother and father Mr. and Mrs. Wiott Rankin Sr. On their return on the thirtieth of this month they hope to bring Mrs. Mather's cousin Miss Winslett with them.

Mrs. Arthur Elston tells us that her daughter Jane, who is well known in Carmel, is now an assistant at Miss McClure's Camp for younger children at Lake Tahoe.

Introducing Our Artists

When we started introducing our artists, we wanted to begin with Catherine Seideneck, who, until about 1917, had gained a lot of fame as Catherine Comstock. She is unquestionably the most versatile artist in the colony. Running her a close second is her husband, George, whom we are going to introduce to you in the near future.

Catherine's career started while she was still under 20 years of age. At that time she entered Elbert Hubbard's Roycroft Shops to study certain arts and crafts that were being featured there. She became interested in sculptured leather and spent 18 months perfecting that art. In her studio, about nine miles up Carmel Valley, is a splendid example of that work which attracted much attention during the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915, but homes throughout the exclusive residential districts of Northern California also contain prized pieces of her craft work.

If we had a special edition at our disposal, we might be able to do justice to our subject. However, we will have to hit just the high spots in her career.

Before she started painting and doing her pastel portraits of babies, her craft work had attracted such attention that she was employed as an instructor in that work at the University of California for a period of three years. Then followed a period of instruction at the California School of Arts and Crafts.

Then she discovered Carmel, and a little later, discovered George. Both are artists but, for some unexplainable reason, they are able to work together in perfect harmony and criticize the work of the other (constructively) without coming to blows.

Visiting the Misses Berthe and Ellen Kleinschmidt in Hatton Fields is Mrs. Lucile Verner of San Francisco who is the interior decorator at the Palace Hotel. Mrs. Verner intends to remain here until the hotel strike is settled.

Paul Flanders went to San Francisco for a few days last week on business.

Our cameraman went artistic also this week in the matter of introducing our artists and went in for composition and tones in an effort to bring Catherine Seideneck to your attention. We are afraid that the tones may turn out to be a failure but we will assure you that Catherine is a success.

Mary Campbell of Piedmont who is often here during the summer was back with us for just one night last week staying with Betty Reynolds. She had just returned from Shreveport, Louisiana, and was on her way home.

Mrs. Vera Peck Millis and daughters Jane and Ann went to San Francisco last week to attend the graduation exercises of daughter Martha from Miss Bransom's School. The three girls are going East for the summer, and Mrs. Millis sails on July third for a trip to England and Ireland. Bill Millis arrived home from Stanford late last week and will stay with Miss Glenna Peck at her home on Monte Verde for the summer.

Jim and Grace Thoburn spent three days last week at their ranch near Sonora in Tuolumne County.

Personally Speaking

Miss Mary Woolsey entertained a group of her friends at a beach picnic last Saturday evening. Among those who enjoyed the party were, Jean and Nancy Hollingsworth, Pat Hall, Betty and Irene Wilson, Jean Weill, Markham and Warren Johnston, Adlington Cady, Frank Hayford, Homer Levinson, Tim Lyon, Jess Owens and George Wishart.

Mrs. George B. Hall and her daughter, Pat, left Monday to spend the summer in Seattle.

John Campbell is back in Carmel for a while after his graduation from Stanford. He expects to go to Washington, D. C. this summer to prepare for the foreign service. John is the second young Carmelite to prepare for this type of work. The first one was Spec Watson. Gordie Campbell will study law in San Francisco this summer.

Stanford Night at Del Monte attracted many of Carmel's younger set—the always stunning Ace Sykes was seen escorted by three or four of our most eligible bachelors—noticed lovely Eleanor Morehead with Bud Todd—also glimpsed Mary Agnes Grigsby and Ted Leidig. The same evening a no host fish fry was held at the Carmel Point home of Bill McAdams.

Jackie and Joan Fauntleroy left last Friday for Chicago, where they will meet their father.

From Berkeley last week came the Misses Yohanna and Elida Varnholt who plan to stay in Carmel for a month. They have been coming to Carmel every summer for many years. Miss Yohanna has just received her Master's Degree at the University of California, and Miss Elida will enter her senior year this fall.

"LAST ONE IN'S A —"

Notice the graceful swan dive in the background and the one lonesome female in the foreground. Our cameraman took this picture while 25 members of the Carmel den of Cubs were enjoying an outing at Robles del Rio last week.

Cubs Given Outing

Just about everything that delights a red-blooded boy when he is turned loose in the wide open spaces was indulged in by 25 members of the three Carmel dens of Cubs when they were taken to Robles del Rio Thursday.

"Dickie" Dixon, their leader was in command of the expedition and had as his assistants Byington Ford, Joe Catherwood and four "den mothers," Mrs. William Frolli, Mrs. Arlie Holmes, Mrs. Inez Pelton and Mrs. Myrtle Stoddard.

While the den mothers were preparing the picnic luncheon, the boys were taken on a hike through the hills and given an opportunity to study nature in the raw.

Following the picnic, after their food had had time to settle, the boys swarmed into the swimming pool and enjoyed water sports for more than an hour. Dixon and Catherwood served as life guards.

ELECTS OFFICERS

The Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion had their annual election of officers last Thursday evening at the Manzanita Club. The meeting opened with a draped charter in memory of Mrs. Willard Whitney. The Chaplain read a short prayer. This was followed by the regular business meeting during which it was agreed to contribute to the Red Cross ambulance fund. The election of officers then took place, and Mrs. Markham Johnston was named the new president. To serve with her during the coming year are: Mrs. William Bensberg, first vice president; Mrs. Edward Ewing, second vice president; Mrs. Ray Moore, secretary; Mrs. Bob Norton, treasurer. Mrs. Verne Regan is acting as treasurer pro tem in the absence of Mrs. Norton. Mrs. Edward Maddox is the new chaplain; Mrs. Lee Gottfried, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Charles G. Lawrence, historian. On the executive board are, Mrs. Jack Schroeder, Mrs. Rush Wallace and Mrs. Fred McIndoe.

Jean Cowen, the attractive daughter of Mrs. Fred Godwin, returned to Carmel last week after completing her first year at Pomona College. But Jean won't be with us long. She will commute between here and San Francisco for the next two weeks, after which she leaves for China with her father for six months. Hope you have a nice trip, Jean, but Carmel will miss you as it has been looking forward to having you here this summer.

NEW AUXILIARY HEAD

Gladys Johnson, one of our most serious purveyors of real estate, was elected president of the local Auxiliary to the American Legion last week but she was too busy signing checks to even look at the "birdie" when our cameraman made this shot.

PHIL NESBITT

Imagine pink pigs all over Mr. Kip's walls done by our 'andsome Phil—the very idea makes us lyrical—add blue elephants to this layout and the result is both devastating and delightful. At any rate we were on the point of getting lyrical, so—

Where once we heard of purple cows
Pink pigs now reign supreme.
Blue elephants on walls will browne
When you go to buy your cream.

No rhythm—we realize—but to continue, we are anxiously awaiting the adornment of said walls.

Liz Houghton, a welcome addition to Carmel's younger set, is back here for the summer. Liz has just completed her first year at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Mr. Timeplan Says:

When shingles split
And paint-work dries,
The time has come
To modernize!

YOU
SAVE MONEY
IN THE END BY MODERNIZING
NOW!

DON'T let a lack of ready cash prevent you from making needed improvements and repairs on your home. Frequently, by repairing before deterioration has gone too far, you can save money in the end. A Timeplan modernization loan arranged through Bank of America costs as little as $6 per year for each $100 borrowed. There is no down payment and repayment may be made over 2 or 3 years in convenient monthly amounts. Ask for details at the nearest branch.

OFF STAGE

Ruth Marion, (alias Mrs. McElroy) we are glad to say, is in Carmel for the summer, staying at the home of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. George Marion. Miss Marion, who played for several years with the "Drunkard" in Los Angeles, is one of the most charming people we've met, and will be a welcome addition to Carmel this summer.

Girl Scout Camp

The Monterey Peninsula Girl Scout Camp opened at Corral de Tierra Sunday, and is equal in every way to older, larger and more well-known camps, according to Mrs. G. de Lorimier and Mrs. T. W. Van Ess, who represented the Peninsula at a meeting in Oakland last month, called by Mrs. Philip Lee Bush, newly appointed Director of Public Relations on the National Board of Girl Scouts to discuss camps.

The camp, which is on the private ranch of Mrs. Will Hatton, is surrounded by lovely scenery. The girls sleep out of doors but in case of rain have four shelter tents. They found it difficult to sleep the first night because of the rabbits who scuttled about in the bushes, and they thought the changing positions of the stars were most exciting.

Many activities have been planned for the girls under the direction of Mrs. Will Hatton. These will include swimming, nature lore, handicraft, folk dancing, singing, outdoor games, pioneering, and hiking. There will also be a trained dietician, an excellent cook, a nurse, and a life saver in camp.

Many of the girls earned their camperships. Pacific Grove girls earned $21.95 by their cookie sale. Grammar school Girl Scouts earned money by working in the school library, and the finance committee decided that money which is given monthly for the upkeep of Girl Scout houses for the next three months be allotted towards camperships.

Camperships were also given in Carmel by Mrs. W. N. Dekker, Mrs. T. J. Williams and Mrs. R. Stanton.

In Monterey by the Misses Jacks, the Elks Club, the Auxiliary of the American Legion, the P. T. A. of the Oak Grove School, Mr. Tynan of the Tynan Lumber Co., Mrs. Thomas Doud, the Tau Mu, and Mrs. J. H. Large.

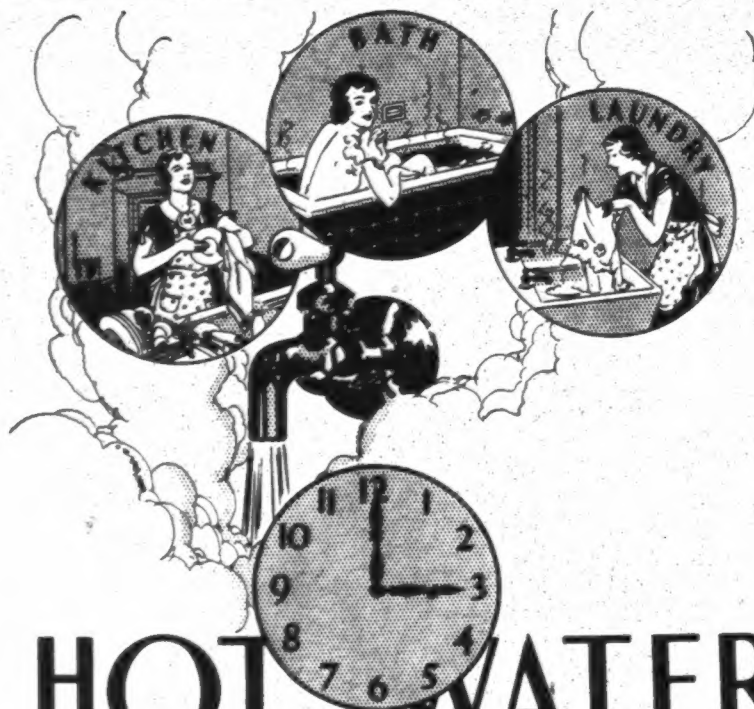

In Pacific Grove by the Tau Mu, Mrs. H. von Sicklen and Dr. D. D. Flickinger of the Presidio.

LIBRARY NOTES

The Carmel Library is organizing a story hour for young children to be held every Saturday at three o'clock during the summer vacation. Miss Barbara Wood will tell the stories. It will be held in the children's room of the library.

The Spring Book Festival for children is now in progress. This means that there is an extra large number of new books for vacation reading. These new books can be found on the cabinet at the south end of the room.

Mrs. Maude Arndt of the Peter Pan courts who has been under a doctor's care in San Jose is now home and fully recovered.

HOT WATER

at any hour... day or night

THIS is no time to neglect thrift. It is no time to waste money. You do neither when you heat water by means of an Automatic Gas Water Heater. After all, it is just plain arithmetic, being proved in thousands of California homes, that you spend to save when you have an Automatic installed in your home. Consider this: If you are using a water heater that has to be lighted with a match, and you also resort to a tea kettle of hot water, every gallon so heated costs twice as much as it would if hot water were always on tap from the insulated tank of an Automatic.

You should also investigate this form of saving in your home. You should take advantage of the low prices of these truly modern Automatic Water Heaters. Prices have never been so low, and right now special easy-to-purchase terms are in effect.

See a representative of this company today or consult your local gas appliance dealer. An Automatic can be purchased for as little as Three Dollars a Month. Act now on this thrift-wise suggestion.
